

Tour Pack

Eaten

by Mamoru Iriguchi

Eaten is a CATS (Critics' Awards for Theatre in Scotland) nominated work for children (6yrs+) by Mamoru Iriguchi, an award-winning performance artist based in Edinburgh. It is about food, eating and being eaten.

The Show

What if your food started talking back? Meet

Lionel the lion. He's just eaten a human called Mamoru for lunch. But Lionel hasn't chewed his food well. So Mamoru's alive and well in his stomach, and now wants to say hello.

Donning a lion costume, Mamoru Iriguchi simultaneously plays the roles of the eater (Lionel the lion who dreams of being a vegetarian) and the eaten (Mamoru the human who loves meat). A Surrealist dialogue about food occurs between the predator and his prey, locked in one body.

Occasionally interrupted by a haunting Conceptual Cow who represents all the cows eaten by Lionel or Mamoru in the past, strange friendship between the eater and the eaten starts to grow. ... until Mamoru gets totally digested. Lionel's sorrow over the loss of his best friend, cannot last too long however, as Dr Poo emerges from his bottom with a triumphant fart.

With surrealist humour, imaginative storyline and colourful characters including Giant Daisy, Dr Poo and Conceptual Cow, Iriguchi – together with director Ivor MacAskill and a co-performer Suzi Cunningham – invites children and grown-ups to the fascinating world of food chains and digestion.

Review Extracts

Nothing short of genius...An astoundingly original work of children's theatre, Eaten is fantastically inventive. (★★★★★ Mark Brown, The Herald On Sunday Full review)

SCIENTIFIC fact meets humorous invention when Iriguchi invites audiences to delve into the belly of the beast and discover what it means to be Eaten. (★★★★★ Mary Brennan, The Herald Full review)

...Add in Iriguchi's straight-faced wit and his ability to combine childlike innocence and DIY sophistication, and what you get is an educational conceptualist entertainment for ages six and up that plays with the notion "you are what you eat" (★★★★★ Donald Hutera, The Times Full review)

Daringly inventive...willingness to take risks that pays off. The relationship between food, death and life might be vital, but is often a taboo subject. This a peculiarly transgressive piece that will please those of any age who appreciate the truly bizarre. (★★★★★ Thom Dibdin, The Stage Full review)

Eaten explores complicated ideas about the food chain and the conflicting emotions that come with being animal-loving omnivores. Iriguchi's creation is unpretentiously intelligent, warm, and as honest as it is silly. (★★★★★ Stephanie Stapleton, ThreeWeeks: Full review)

Past Presentations

Edinburgh Festival Fringe 2017 (Summerhall) & 2018 (Scottish Storytelling Centre), Istanbul Comedy Festival (Turkey), Edinburgh International Science Festival, Take Me Somewhere Festival (Platform, Glasgow), The Place (London), Lyth Arts Centre (Wick), Attenborough Arts Centre (Leicester), Cambridge Junction (Cambridge), Dance North RISE Festival (Findhorn), Palestine International Theater Festival for Children and Youth (Beit Jala/Ramallah, Palestine), Macrobert Arts Centre (Stirling), Puppet Animation Festival Tour, Orkney Science Festival (Kirkwall), Eden Court (Inverness), The Barn (Banchory) and many more.

Basic Touring Information (Full Tech Rider available on request)

Running time: 50mins

On the road: 3 (2 performers + 1 operator)

Capacity: up to 200 (end-on seating)

Minimum stage area: 6m wide x 5m deep x 3.5m grid height

Lighting: General wash + several specials (LX plan available upon request)

Sound: PA system required

Get-in: 3 hours / Get-out 1 hour

More info / Documentation

Eaten website: www.iriguchi.co.uk/Eaten / www.independentartsprojects.com/eaten/

Twitter (@Lionel_McLion): twitter.com/lionel_mclion?lang=en

Full Video Documentation (Password: eaten): <https://vimeo.com/357360076>

Trailer (1min): <https://vimeo.com/351334092>

Creative Team

Mamoru Iriguchi (writer, designer, performer, co-director) | Ivor MacAskill (director) |
Suzi Cunningham (performer) | Alison Brown (costumer supervisor) | Nikki Tomlinson (outside eye)
Selina Papoutsueli (dramaturg) | Gavin Pringle (assistant director/operator) produced by Independent Arts Projects

About Lead Artist

Iriguchi is an award-winning Edinburgh-based performance maker and theatre designer with background in zoology. His performance works explore 2D and 3D, liveness and pre-recorded-ness, gender and sexuality, fairytales and evolution theories.

His pieces, including Eaten (nominated for CATS Award for Best Production for Children and Young People), 4D Cinema (Autopsy Award winner/Chelsea Theatre + Frankfurt LAB co-commission), PAINKILLERS (The Yard NOW commission), One Man Show (The Place Prize commission), Projector/Conjector (selected for Aerowaves Spring Forward). They toured in the UK and internationally. He also makes intimate short pieces that have been shown at Tramway, Duckie, Tate Britain, ICA, and Wellcome Collection.

Iriguchi's theatre design work includes Mincemeat (Cardboard Citizens, Best Design, Evening Standard Theatre Awards), Love Song to Lavender Menace (Royal Lyceum, Edinburgh), Gloria: A Pigtales (Bregenz Festival, Austria and Royal Opera House, London) and The Pink Bits (Mapping4D, Oxford Samuel Beckett Theatre Award). www.iriguchi.co.uk

For further information and booking, please contact:

Mhari Robinson: mhari@independentartsprojects.com | +44 7534 942 255

Mamoru Iriguchi: mamoru@iriguchi.co.uk | +44 7941 316 723